

EXACT VISUAL SCRIPT

Genre: Horror / Psychological Thriller
Duration: Approximately 3 minutes 42 seconds

SCENE 1 – THE SLEEPING ROOM

INT. BEDROOM – NIGHT

A bedroom.

A young man lies asleep on the bed, covered with a blanket.

The room is quiet.

The camera slowly establishes the space around him.

The lights begin to dim.

The room gradually falls into darkness.

SCENE 2 – SOMETHING WAKES HIM

The young man suddenly wakes up.

He sits upright on the bed.

He looks around the room.

Something feels wrong.

He looks toward different parts of the room, trying to understand what disturbed him.

His expression becomes uneasy.

The room is now much darker.

He remains alert.

SCENE 3 – THE RED LIGHT

A strong RED LIGHT suddenly fills the room.

The young man looks toward the source.

A hand reaches toward a wall switch or light control.

The red light continues to dominate the room.

The atmosphere changes completely.

The young man stands in front of the red-lit background.

His shadow appears prominently on the wall.

He slowly moves.

His silhouette and shadow create an unnatural and disturbing image.

SCENE 4 – FEAR

CLOSE-UP

The young man's face.

He is visibly frightened.

He touches his face and looks around.

Behind him, the room remains covered in red light.

He turns repeatedly, checking his surroundings.

The shadows on the wall continue to follow his movements.

He becomes increasingly anxious.

SCENE 5 – SEARCHING FOR ANSWERS

The young man looks toward the bed and nearby objects.

He reaches forward.

He searches around him.

His hands move across the bed and surrounding area.

He appears to be looking for his phone.

He finally picks it up.

SCENE 6 – THE PHONE

The young man holds his phone.

The screen illuminates his face.

The red light still surrounds him.

He looks at the screen.

His expression changes.

He appears disturbed by what he sees or hears.

He brings the phone closer.

He then places it against his ear.

PHONE CALL / SOUND

The exact words are not visually identifiable from the footage, so this section should contain the original audio from the film rather than newly invented dialogue.

The young man listens.

He becomes more concerned.

He looks around while still holding the phone.

SCENE 7 – BACK TO THE ROOM

A sudden transition.

The room appears brighter and more normal.

The bed is shown.

The young man looks around cautiously.

The lighting begins to shift again.

He moves toward the area near the door and mirror.

He holds the phone/light source.

He scans the room.

SCENE 8 – SOMETHING IS IN THE ROOM

The young man reaches toward the bed.

He looks around.

His hand moves slowly, as though he is checking whether someone or something is there.

The camera focuses on his movements and his reaction.

He suddenly looks to one side.

The tension increases.

He turns his head.

Something has caught his attention.

SCENE 9 – THE LIGHT

The young man sits and looks upward.

He appears to notice something above or around him.

A close shot shows his hand near an electrical connection or switch.

He interacts with it.

The lighting changes again.

He moves away.

SCENE 10 – THE SHADOW

The young man walks through the room.

His silhouette is visible against the wall.

A large shadow appears beside him.

He stops.

He turns.

The room remains dimly illuminated.

He looks down and then around, trying to remain calm.

The shadow effect becomes an important part of the scene.

SCENE 11 – THE MIRROR

The young man approaches the mirror.

A candle is placed in front of it.

The candle is lit.

The flame becomes the main source of light.

He slowly sits or leans toward the mirror.

The candlelight illuminates his face.

The rest of the room remains dark.

SCENE 12 – THE REFLECTION

CLOSE-UP – MIRROR

The young man's face appears in the mirror.

The candle burns in front of him.

He stares directly at his reflection.

The camera alternates between:

- The candle flame
- His face
- His reflection in the mirror

The atmosphere becomes increasingly unsettling.

He continues staring.

The candle flame flickers.

FINAL SCENE

The camera remains focused on the mirror and candle.

The young man's reflection is still visible.

The room gradually becomes darker.

The candle remains burning.

CUT TO BLACK.

END